

Barn Quilt Trail

Of Ohio County, Kentucky

School Project

Funded through the Extension and the Arts Grant from the Kentucky Arts Council, barn quilt squares are currently being placed at each of the elementary schools in the county as part of an Arts and Humanities curriculum.

After learning about quilting in the classroom, fifth grade students (2008-09) in each elementary school designed quilt blocks, a winner was chosen, and a 4' x 4' sign was painted for the school from the winning design.

In addition, small cloth quilt blocks matching the winning student's block were pieced by Ohio County Homemakers and then hand quilted by students in the classroom.

Each school then received a hand-crafted matching doll by local artisan, Liz Davis, to "hold" the quilt and remain on display in each school's lobby.
